From the CEO

Farewell, with appreciation, pride, humility and gratitude

Evalyn Ormond, CEO

After 30 years with Union General Hospital I have made the decision to retire effective March 2023. My time at Union General Hospital has been the experience of a lifetime for which I am grateful. It has been and will remain a great honor of mine to have served this hospital and community – I will miss the collegiality and interaction with you all.

As the curve of the virus flattened and the challenge dissipated, Union General Hospital emerged stronger and more prepared than ever before. I am confident this strength will continue undeterred and our mission and tradition of delivering first-in-class, expert patient driven healthcare will take us to new heights.

I am pleased to announce that Dianne Davidson, COO will become Union General Hospital's new CEO effective March 2023. Diane has been an extremely effective leader throughout her career, she has made a clear and a positive impact on the entire hospital community. Following my retirement, Diane will assume full leadership of Union General Hospital. Joining her will be Amanda Whiddon, who will be promoted to chief operating officer (COO), effective March 2023. Amanda has been a critical part of the senior leadership team since December 2022. She is well-known and well-respected among her peers here at Union General Hospital and throughout the system.

In partnership with our community, Union General Hospital now stands a model to our peers and ready to deliver exceptional healthcare and a unique patient experience. In this bittersweet moment, I am proud that Union General Hospital is your trusted family hospital, humbled by your tremendous support through the years and confident that, together with your continued support, Union General Hospital will flourish, grow and continue to provide our community peace-of-mind.

The healthcare environment we are presently experiencing teaches us that we need to come together, be kind and understanding of each other. We are privileged to serve and work collaboratively to offer the patient the finest care possible. I will greatly miss working with you and am confident you are in good hands with Dianne and Amanda leading this change. I may be retiring but would always like to hear from my work family anytime.

Thank you.

UNION GENERAL HOSPITAL HEROES

Lance White: Thanks to Lance White for coming in on a Sunday to see a Direct SWB patient that was admitted on Saturday. He saw her at NLMC on that Saturday and didn't want her to miss a day of therapy on Sunday so he came in on his day off. Thank you Lance!!!!

Josie Thompson & Cindy Branch: Josie did a great job at registration and Cindy is just awesome!!!

Tamarion Braggs: Tamarion has picked up extra night shifts as ward clerk while new ward clerk is being trained. Sunday night 12/18 she stayed over after her 12 hour day shift until after midnight b/c nurse's aide called in sick on night shift and one else could come. She will only have 2 days off in between 13 days of working. Thank you for your dedication. It's greatly appreciated.

Liz Almond & Tina Smith: Liz and Tina have worked with no ward clerk on their shift for at least 3 nights out of their 7 shifts for the last 3 pay periods. They work together to do whatever they need to take care of the patients! In addition, on 12/18 they had no ward clerk or CNA from 12a-7a with 8 patients. We appreciate you!

What Are the Post-Holiday Blues?

MENTAL HEALTH

Union General Hospital IOP
761 James Avenue
Farmerville, LA 71241
www.uniongen.org

Post-holiday blues usually refer to the short-lived mental distress, anxiety, and sadness that arises after the holidays.

The holidays are a busy time and they last from Thanksgiving through New Year's Eve. This period might include celebrations and get-togethers for Thanksgiving, Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, and New Year's Eve. That's a long period of time.

While it may be an exciting stretch for many people, it can also be a prolonged period of loneliness and sadness for others. Throughout this time, emotions are heightened.

Sometimes emotions are hard to regulate.

It's common after all of the hoopla for people to experience a letdown or what some call the "post-holiday blues." Usually not long-lasting, most people swing "back to normal" after a short while.

Here is what you need to know about this down period. This article will discuss the Christmas effect on mental health, signs of post-holiday blues, emotions you might feel after the frantic holidays, and tips on how to feel better.

Is There a Christmas Effect on Mental Health?

Many people experience mental health challenges after the holidays. Scientists have in fact studied the effect of religious holidays on individuals.

In a study called "The Christmas Effect on Psychopathology," scientists conducted a literature search from 1980 to the present. They used the search terms "Christmas," "suicide," "depression," "psychiatric disorders," and "self-harm behavior." It included studies from the U.S. as well as other countries.

They found a decrease in the overall utilization of psychiatric emergency services and admissions, self-harm behavior, and suicide attempts/completions during the holiday. But they found an increase, or a rebound, following the Christmas holiday.

If you are having suicidal thoughts, contact the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 988 for support and assistance from a trained counselor. If you or a loved one are in immediate danger, call 911.

For more mental health resources, see our National Helpline Database.

Signs of Post-Holiday Blues

How can you determine if what you have is indeed the post-holiday blues? Rest assured, though signs may vary, any of these signs likely won't last too long.

After the adrenaline rush of the holidays:

- You may feel anxious.
- You may feel unmotivated,
- You may be in a bad mood.
- You may be irritable.
- You may feel stressed.
- You may be depressed.
- You may have insomnia.
- You may have worries about money.
- You may have excessive rumination.

Emotions You Might Feel Now

Sometimes called “post-vacation syndrome,” people are navigating a way to get back to business as usual. While not reflective of a serious case of depression in most circumstances, emotions involved with post-holiday blues range widely.

Common emotions people feel include:

Emptiness

You might wonder why you feel empty. Various reasons including exhaustion might contribute to you feeling this way. After all, the holiday season is a frenzied time. In addition to putting up decorations and buying gifts, you may have had added responsibilities like cooking or volunteering for a local non-profit.

Let Down After Extreme Emotions

This feeling of being let down after the holidays might simply be your recovery from intense positive emotions. For example, you may have felt extreme joy and happiness seeing your friends and family.

Reuniting with older relatives who you distanced from during the pandemic might have been wonderful. While it seems counter-intuitive, you might feel low now as your emotions regulate and readjust.

Loneliness

Conversely, you may have felt especially isolated and alone during the holidays. Maybe you had to work long hours, couldn't afford to travel or chose to be alone. For those feeling loneliness during the holiday season or afterwards, psychologists advise you cultivate your sense of gratitude and be kind to yourself.

Stress

Yet another reason for feeling the post-holiday blues is you're stressed. If you traveled for the first time in a long while, logistics could have made things more complicated. Getting ready for and returning from a long car trip or flight is hard enough.

Add to that staying updated on ever-changing rules about masking, vaccine requirements and testing may have added to your to-do list and sense of overwhelm.

After so much stimulation, your return to reality might involve even more to catch up on. Thus, the stress continues. While you might have enjoyed holiday time, it disrupted your routine and you really didn't have much rest.

Loss

If you were close to your family and are no longer, you might feel disappointed as well as a sense of loss. Remember that emotions during and after the holiday period might be especially heightened. If a loved one recently died, you might be sad and grieving.

Tips on How to Feel Better

Here are some ways to get out of the funk after the holidays:

Give yourself more time. This means giving yourself additional time for everything from unpacking to catching up on the mail. Schedule a day or two as catch-up time. Use this as a buffer before returning to the regular routine.

Change your mood by limiting social media. Talk to people by phone or in person instead.

- Get some exercise. The Cleveland Clinic says you'll feel happier and get those endorphins kicking in by going for a walk.
- Partake in nature therapy. It's been proven that green spaces increase our sense of well-being.
- Eat well. Focus on fish, whole grains, dark chocolate, and green tea to combat stress.
- Get enough sleep. The Sleep Foundation says poor sleep contributes to depression and that someone might be more likely to deal with sleep issues if they are depressed.
- Find out if you're suffering from seasonal affective disorder \(SAD\). SAD is a recurring depressive disorder during seasons of more darkness. A recent study found adding exercise and going to the gym can effectively treat SAD.
- Be nice to yourself. Cut yourself some slack and administer self-care.

- Schedule something to look forward to on the calendar. Rather than slog through January, set up a time with friends to play sports, to check out a museum show, or to meet for a special lunch.
- Watch funny movies. Humor and laughter reduce stress.
- Communicate that you're feeling down. Tell family and close friends what you're going through. They might be helpful.

It's natural that after all the excitement and busyness of the holidays, you'd come down off the highs. If you are struggling mildly with these after-holiday blues, try some of the suggested remedies above. You'll probably be able to shake off these blahs, cheer up and get on with the new year.

UNDERSTANDING THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RSV, FLU, AND COVID-19

Health experts warn of a “triple-demic” surge this winter as Americans face the threat of severe respiratory syncytial virus (RSV), influenza (flu), and COVID-19. In the last couple of years, both the flu and COVID-19 have been prominent in the United States, but with RSV’s prevalence this year, there are new risks when catching any of these illnesses. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s (CDC) surveillance has shown an increase in RSV detections and RSV-associated emergency department visits and hospitalizations in multiple U.S. regions.

With several viruses circulating this winter, you may worry about every cough or sneeze and wonder what you have. Since these illnesses are all caused by viruses that affect your respiratory system, they also share some symptoms. This can make it challenging to know what you may be sick with when feeling under the weather. This article highlights the differences between RSV, flu, and COVID-19 based on CDC information.

RSV

RSV is a common respiratory virus that usually causes mild, cold-like symptoms. Almost all children will have had an RSV infection by their second birthday. Most people recover in a week or two, but RSV can be severe, especially for infants and older adults. RSV tends to spread via surface droplets, especially in high-touch areas.

RSV symptoms can appear within four to six days after getting infected. Common symptoms include:

- A runny nose
- Decreased appetite
- Fever
- Cough
- Sneezing
- Wheezing

These symptoms usually appear in stages—not all at once. Very young infants with RSV may only experience symptoms like irritability, decreased activity, and breathing difficulties.

Flu

Flu activity typically peaks between December and February, although significant activity can last as late as May. Since the COVID-19 pandemic began, flu activity timing and duration have been less predictable.

Flu symptoms usually appear suddenly and vigorously and are more severe than a cold. Common symptoms include:

- High-grade fever or chills
- Cough
- Sore throat
- Runny or stuffy nose
- Muscle or body aches

This article is for informational purposes only and is not intended as medical advice. For further information, please consult a medical professional. © 2022 Zywave, Inc. All rights reserved.

UNDERSTANDING THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RSV, FLU AND COVID-19

- Headache
- Fatigue

People with the flu often feel some or all of the above symptoms. Most people who get the flu will recover in a few days to less than two weeks, but some will develop a wide range of complications because of the flu. For example, sinus and ear infections are moderate complications, while pneumonia is severe.

COVID-19

COVID-19 spreads when an infected person takes out droplets and tiny particles containing the virus. These droplets and particles can be breathed in by others or land on their eyes, noses, or mouth.

Symptoms can appear two to 14 days following exposure to COVID-19. Anyone can have mild to severe symptoms. Common symptoms include:

- Fever or chills
- Cough
- Shortness of breath or difficulty breathing
- Fatigue
- Muscle or body aches
- Headache
- New loss of taste or smell
- Sore throat
- Congestion or runny nose
- Diarrhea

This list doesn't include all possible symptoms because symptoms may change as new COVID-19 variants emerge and can vary depending on a person's vaccination status. As such, the CDC recommends COVID-19 vaccines for everyone six months and older and boosters for everyone five years and older.

Summary

Because there is some overlap between symptoms, it may be challenging to determine whether you have RSV, the flu, or COVID-19 without being tested. For more information about these viruses, visit the CDC's website.

If you're not feeling well, stay home and call your doctor to explain your symptoms or take an at-home COVID-19 test, if available. A healthcare provider can also test to determine if you have RSV, the flu, or COVID-19.

ANTIBIOTIC STEWARDSHIP PROGRAM

Dr. Kate Hollenshead Cook, PharmD
Director of Pharmacy, PIC

Antibiotics refer to medicines used to treat bacterial infections. Antibiotics were first discovered in 1928. With the progression of time, we now have several types of antibiotics available for use in the medical field. Antibiotics are chosen based on the causal organism (the bacteria causing the infection) and the patient's condition upon doctor's examination.

Not all infections require antibiotics. Most illnesses with symptoms such as fever, cough and runny nose are caused by viruses, which do not necessitate antibiotics. This is because antibiotics are only useful in the treatment of infections caused by bacteria. Antibiotics are of no help in treating infections caused by other microorganisms such as viruses and fungi.

Misuse of antibiotics puts us all at risk.

JANUARY IS HUMAN TRAFFICKING PREVENTION MONTH

<https://humantrafficking.la.gov>

Human trafficking is the crime of using force, fraud, or coercion to compel a person into commercial sex acts or labor against his or her will.

Every year, millions of men, women, and children are trafficked worldwide – including right here in Louisiana. It can happen in any community and victims can be any age, race, gender, or nationality.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING IN LOUISIANA

Each year in Louisiana, hundreds of victims– of all ages, genders, and ethnicities— have been identified as human trafficking victims. Louisiana began collecting annual data on human trafficking in 2014.

In 2021, 932 victims of human trafficking were reported as receiving services. 89% of victims reported identified as female. 84% of victims reported were identified as sex trafficking victims. Nearly 65% of victims were under the age of 17 years old.

SEX TRAFFICKING

Sex Trafficking is the crime of using force, fraud, or coercion to induce another individual into commercial sex acts. In Louisiana, it is not required to demonstrate the use of force, fraud, or coercion when the victim is under the age of 21. This means that any person in Louisiana under the age of 21 who is engaging in commercial sex acts is a victim of a crime, not a criminal.

Sex trafficking in Louisiana takes many forms including familial trafficking, gang trafficking, a child exchanging a sex act for anything of value (survival trafficking), or an individual selling a child in exchange for anything of value.

Victims of sex trafficking may also experience labor trafficking by being forced to engage in criminal activity.

LABOR TRAFFICKING

Labor Trafficking is the crime of using force, fraud, or coercion to induce another individual into labor or services. Common types of sites where labor trafficking occurs in Louisiana include the seafood industry, agriculture, aquaculture, restaurants, construction, and the drug trade.

Forced criminal activity is also a form of labor trafficking, which involves compelling a person into committing crimes. Individuals who are forced to commit crimes—such as theft, drug trafficking, or access device fraud—are often coerced through threats of violence or acts of violence, and they do not benefit from the profits.

JANUARY IS HUMAN TRAFFICKING PREVENTION MONTH

WHAT ARE FORCE, FRAUD AND COERCION?

TRAFFICKERS USE THE TACTICS OF FORCE, FRAUD, AND COERCION TO RECRUIT, EXPLOIT, AND CONTROL VICTIMS.

Force refers to the use of physical force or physical control to break down victims. This can include: physical harm, sexual violence, and confinement.

Fraud refers to methods of deception or false promises of employment, wages, love, marriage, or a better life. This can include: withholding wages, falsifying documents, and contract fraud.

Coercion refers to the mental or psychological control that traffickers exercise over their victims. This can include: threats of harm, threats of arrest or deportation, debt bondage, psychological manipulation, or document confiscation.

<https://humantrafficking.la.gov>

COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS

Human Trafficking Only Happens In Other Countries

Reality: Human trafficking can happen in any community, anywhere around the world. In 2021, Louisiana service providers reported 932 instances of confirmed and suspected human trafficking across urban and rural parishes in our state.

Sex trafficking only happens to women or girls.

Reality: Men and boys experience human trafficking too. In 2021, 9% of reported victims in Louisiana identified as male.

Labor trafficking is less common, does not happen here, or is less traumatic than sex trafficking.

Reality: Labor trafficking occurs in Louisiana communities, though it occurs at lower rates. Traffickers use similar tactics as sex traffickers when recruiting their victims.

Movement is required for trafficking to occur.

Reality: The crime of human trafficking does not require any movement or transporting across state or national borders.

Traffickers are always strangers.

Reality: Many survivors are groomed by people they know, such as romantic partners, family members, and spouses.

Trafficking does not happen in the home.

Reality: Human trafficking can happen in the home such as by family members or friends. The crime of human trafficking does not require the movement of victims across borders.

Victim behavior causes trafficking.

Reality: Victims and survivors of human trafficking are groomed and recruited for victimization. Initial consent to commercial sex or labor is not relevant when force, fraud, or coercion is present or the individual is a minor engaging in commercial sex.

Power is always maintained through drugs or physical force.

Reality: Traffickers use many tactics to recruit and keep their victims. Physical force and forced drug use are some ways traffickers maintain power. Other tactics include psychological manipulation, threats of violence, isolation, and economic dependency.

Cervical Health Awareness Month

January is Cervical Health Awareness Month, and UNION GENERAL RURAL HEALTH CLINIC wants you to know that there's a lot you can do to prevent cervical cancer. Each year, more than 11,000 women in the United States get cervical cancer.

HPV (human papillomavirus) is a very common infection that spreads through sexual activity, and it causes almost all cases of cervical cancer. About 79 million Americans currently have HPV, but many people with HPV don't know they are infected.

The good news?

The HPV vaccine (shot) can prevent HPV.

- Cervical cancer can often be prevented with regular screening tests and follow-up care.

In honor of National Cervical Health Awareness Month, Union General Rural Health Clinic encourages:

- Women to start getting regular cervical cancer screenings at age 21
- Parents to make sure pre-teens get the HPV vaccine at age 11 or 12
- Teens and young adults also need to get the HPV vaccine if they didn't get it as pre-teens. Women up to age 26 and men up to age 21 can still get the vaccine.

February is Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month

<https://www.loveisrespect.org/get-involved/tdvam/>

Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month

Dating violence is more common than you may think, especially among teens and young adults: 1 in 3 U.S. teens will experience physical, sexual, or emotional abuse from someone they're in a relationship with before they become adults. And nearly half (43%) of U.S. college women report experiencing violent or abusive dating behaviors.

Each February, young adults and their loved ones across the nation raise awareness about the issue of teen dating violence through Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month (TDVAM). This annual, month-long effort focuses on advocacy and education to stop dating abuse before it starts.

We're excited to announce the 2023 theme for TDVAM is "Be About It". Selected by the love is respect Youth Council, "Be About It" is a continuation of last year's theme, "Talk About It." This year during TDVAM, we're unapologetically about education, engagement, and empowerment and we're here to amplify the voices of teens and young adults and those who support them by uplifting positive, healthy, and safe relationships. Join us as we magnify our young people's voices, highlighting the issues teens face related to healthy relationships. Whether offering support, or relationship education, or connecting someone to resources, "Be About It" calls on us all to create a world free from relationship abuse.

Union General Hospital announces the 2023 It's a Girl Thing, Making Proud Choices Scholarship Program. Under the Program (1) $1,000 scholarship will be awarded to a deserving senior girl attending high school in Union Parish.

Every year we look forward to receiving the applications and reading about the students' accomplishments and the impact of our program in their lives. Go to www.uniongen.org or scan the code to download the application.

Due date to apply: March 31st, 2023

Post-COVID Outpatient Therapy Recovery Program

Everyone has either experienced the virus, know someone who has or will be impacted by general deconditioning, reduced functional capacity, and speech and swallowing deficits common to post-COVID recovery.

Therapy services are focused on one thing during this healthcare crisis and that is to enable a return to normal daily activity in a safe and effective manner.

It has been determined that post-COVID patients can experience long-term complications related to prolonged inactivity, extended hospitalization with associated mechanical ventilation.

FOCUS AREAS:

- Deconditioning
- Pain
- Fatigue
- Damaged vocal folds
- Speech and Swallowing deficits
- Inability to perform/resume normal daily activities
- Depression/Isolation

901 James Avenue
Farmerville, LA 71241

Evidence cited by the US Department of Health and Human Services supports the fact that physical activity improves and maintains cardio-respiratory and muscular fitness and reduces the risk of chronic diseases, depression, and cognitive decline.

Our goal is to break the cycle of inactivity using Individualized Evaluation and Plan of Care to address the needs of each patient in order to meet the goal of returning to previous home and work-related activities.

Our licensed clinicians are able to determine the best path of care for these unique patients.

We are able to safely accommodate referrals of your post-COVID patients according to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and Louisiana Department of Health guidelines in our outpatient facility.

DRY NEEDLING

AVAILABLE TO QUALIFYING PATIENTS

Pain relief for the patient is our first priority. Dry needling is a technique physical therapist use for the treatment of pain and movement impairments. The technique uses a "dry" needle, one without medication or injection, inserted through the skin into areas of the muscle.

NEED DOCTOR'S ORDER FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY

Dry needling is not acupuncture, a practice based on traditional Chinese medicine and performed by acupuncturists. Dry needling is a part of modern Western medicine principles, and supported by research

BY ALEA MILHAM

Quick & Easy KING CAKE

Is it even Mardi Gras if you don't make a King Cake Recipe? No! A King Cake is one of the ultimate Mardi Gras traditions that you definitely want to include in your Fat Tuesday celebration. That's why we came up with this simple recipe that you can make quickly. But don't worry, just because it is easy does not mean it is short on flavor! This cake has cream cheese, brown sugar, cinnamon, and pecans in the filling.

Let the good times roll with this crazy easy Mardi Gras King Cake Recipe using Crescent Rolls.

Ingredients:

- 2 (8 ounce) packages refrigerated crescent roll dough
 - 2 (8 ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
 - ½ cup brown sugar
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 - 1 cup chopped pecans
 - 2 cups powdered sugar
- ¼ cup milk
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - Colored sugars in purple, green, yellow
 - Small plastic baby, bean, or coin

Instructions:

1. Preheat oven to 375 degrees.
2. Open crescent rolls and separate triangles. Arrange triangles on a large, round baking stone or pizza pan with the points in the middle.
3. Press the crescent rolls together at their middle in a round circle, allowing the edges to remain loose.
4. In a mixer, combine cream cheese, brown sugar, cinnamon, and vanilla until well blended. Then, mix in pecans.
5. Evenly spoon cream cheese mixture over the pressed area of the crescent rolls.
6. Fold points of crescent rolls over the cream cheese mixture, pressing the tips into the other side of the dough. Then, fold the wide edges of the dough over the cream cheese mixture, tucking the ends under the inside of the crescent ring. Lightly press to seal any open creases.
7. Bake for 25 minutes or until golden.
8. Allow the king cake to cool slightly but not completely.
9. In a medium bowl, whisk together powdered sugar, milk, and lemon juice until blended with no lumps remaining. Pour icing over king cake.
10. Immediately add colored sugars.
11. Before serving, slide a plastic baby favor or coin under the king cake.
12. The person who gets the token in their slice will make the king cake next year.
