Respectful Behavior Policy:

Union General Hospital It's a Girl Thing; Making Proud Choices participants are expected to behave in a way that permits the meetings to carry out the scheduled activities. Girls who are continually disruptive in a way that prevents the rest of the group from experiencing the benefits of the program may be asked to leave the meeting and a warning note will be sent to the participant girl. If the bad behavior persists a letter will be sent to the parent or guardian and the participant will be released from the program.

It's a Girl Thing; Making Proud Choices administrators reserve the right to remove from participation any girl who for any reason does not fit the mission and goals of the program. The program functions as a safe place for girls and their mentors to speak freely about issues important to them without concern for ridicule or gossip. It is imperative that all private information discussed within a meeting or conversation remain confidential and not be discussed by parents, mentors, girls or others outside of meetings. Violation of this policy can lead to immediate dismissal. The program representatives are, however, mandatory reporters of abuse. Any concerns with any of these policies should be directed to Claudia Wade, Program Director 318-368-7075 or cwade@uniongen.org

Program Rules

Rule #1: What is said in here stays in here.

To keep our group a place where you can feel safe to ask questions and discuss your feelings, it's important that you be able to speak freely. If you are afraid to ask a question, or fear rumors will be started about you or that your personal life will be broadcast to others, a group is just a place to sit for an hour. Let's try to get the most out of our time together and respect each other's privacy.

Rule #2: Respect is key.

Sometimes in a group, disagreements occur. This is very normal, especially when we are discussing controversial or uncomfortable material. It is impossible that everyone will agree on everything, so if someone has a different viewpoint than you do, let's talk about it instead of name-calling, or other disrespectful behaviors which go against the goal of keeping our group a safe place.

Rule #3: No interrupting.

If you want to talk and someone else is talking, please wait until they are finished even if you are REALLY excited about what you have to say! On the flip side of that, let's try to make sure that everyone in the group has a chance to say what they need to. It wouldn't hurt every now and then to check in with others and see if they have something to say about a particular topic.

Rule #4: Please be on time.

Our group operates like a relationship. It's a commitment. Try your best to be on time, or let us know when you will be late or unable to attend.

Rule #5: Turn off your cell phone.

Even though your cell phone is your lifeline to the outside world, texting or taking calls while you are in the group sends a message that the group and the members of the group are not important to you.
